Another Year of New Photo Gear...

As 2024 closes, I'm thinking back to some of the many announcements that happened this year.

Canon has updated a number of printers this year; the PRO-1100 replaces the PRO-1000, and the PRO-x600 series replaces the PRO-x100 series. The main differences for both are new inks that promise better black density of fine art papers, a slightly wider gamut overall and more scratch resistance on gloss and semi-gloss papers. Canon also announced the long anticipated successor to the superb EOS R5, the R5 Mark II. The Mark II enhances what was already an amazingly capable camera, including adding eye-control AF and a back-illuminated sensor for less noise. Its faster sensor readout speed means rolling shutter distortion is only 40% that of the original. The new DIGIX X and DIGIC Accelerator processor enables many new shooting modes, including pre-shot buffering for stills and video, many new enhanced AF modes and continuous still shooting is now up to 30 fps. Along with the announcement of the new flagship R1, these new bodies firmly displace DSLRs as the new professional standard.

Fujifilm has upgraded their GFX series with two new 100MP bodies, the GFX 100 II and the 100S II. Both of these cameras improve on their predecessors, and along with some hotly anticipated GF tilt-shift lenses (exceptional image quality, but they've also proven hard to come by), this system is now capable of pretty much any high-end professional task. The X-system has gained some new bodies, like the X-T50 with its prominent Film-Simulation dial, allowing those wanting to finesse their out-of-camera shots in a very convenient fashion, and the new X-M5, a budget camera with great autofocus and geared towards content creation, or simply those wanting to get into a Fujifilm body at the lowest cost. Recent firmware updates for Fujifilm's flagship models have enhanced AF performance as well. The X100VI continues to be insanely popular and it is only now that Fujifilm seems to have finally started ramping up their production and delivering more cameras than earlier in the year. Unfortunately, we do still have a waiting list and have yet to catch up with all the pre-orders!

Nikon released the Z6 III in the summer, and it is a very solid upgrade over the Z6 II. It features a much faster sensor readout for better electronic shutter performance, less rolling shutter during video, quicker AF and a smoother EVF refresh, plus the enhanced AF algorithms and AF UI of the Zf in a more ergonomic body, at least when using larger and heavier lenses. Also during the year, Nikon released some affordable f/1.4 prime lenses as well as the Z50 II, a nice update of their top APS-C mirrorless model with a faster processor, faster video frame-rates (4K 60p and an N-Log option), an EVF that is twice as bright, a larger rear LCD and UHS-II memory card support. A new relatively compact full-frame travel zoom also came out, the Nikkor Z 28-400mm f/4-8 VR. Were that a DSLR lens, the f/8 maximum aperture at 400mm might be a deal breaker as far as viewfinder brightness and AF performance, however on a mirrorless camera, in most cases a lens that is f/8 wide open appears just as bright as one that is f/1.4 in the electronic viewfinder, and in addition, the main sensor based AF is also less bothered by the lower light levels than a traditional AF module in a DSLR.

As always, see our rebate blog posting for a full list of all the deals! In addition, for every camera body or kit sold, get a rental coupon! Ask us for details.

Lighting and Studio

Ken S.

2024 From A Lighting Viewpoint.

There have been a lot of announcements and advancements from Profoto this year. Some, like the Pro- D3 and recently announced Pro-B3 were directed to the larger photo studios, others like the more compact and lower priced D30 had the regular photographer in mind. The introduction of the "Clic" softboxes and Profoto softboxes with their ease of opening and set up has been an eye opener for many. I would expect to see more big announcements from Profoto in 2025, but they would be hard pressed to top all the great product launches of this past year.

As far as other suppliers, I still foresee problems occasionally filling orders in a timely manner as suppliers continue to thin out their inventory to remain profitable. This is just a reality as manufacturers and suppliers try to forecast the needs of the general public with the current economy. This said, we at Beau Photo are working hard to stay on top of the current demands to provide the best products to fit your needs well into the future.

We have some great Boxing Week specials that are only on for a short time. Come in to the shop for a look at some of the more obscure items we have on sale. Check out the large selection of used lighting that is 10% off the already very low prices in some cases, and let us know what you hope for in the new year.

Happy Holidays!

As we enter this holiday season, I would like to thank all of our loyal customers for a great 2024 and I hope everyone has a great holiday! Here's hoping 2025 will be a great year with great gear!

Holiday Rental Deal!

For Christmas, we will be closing at 2pm on Christmas Eve and reopen on Friday, December 27. What does this mean? If you pick up before 2pm on Tuesday December 24, and return by noon on Friday, December 27, you get almost three whole days for the price of one! For New Year's, we will be closed only on New Year's Day, but if you pick up your rental gear after noon on December 31 and return by noon on Thursday, January 2nd, it will be just a one day rate!

NEW Canon EOS R5 Mark II in Rentals

We have just received a new camera for our rental pool, and it is the highly anticipated Canon EOS R5MkII! It debuted 4 years after its well regarded predecessor the R5, and is a continuation of Canon's "5" series high end full frame body. It has the same 45MP resolution, but now has a brand new stacked CMOS sensor, eye controlled AF system, up to 30fps continuous shooting, 8K RAW at up to 60fps, waveform and false colour display for video and many other new or improved features. It is quite the powerhouse of a camera!

Bag Thoughts

Boris R.

Happy Holidays!

This year has been as filling as a cherry pie. I became a Canadian citizen. I had my university short film premiere at an independent theatre in Vancouver. And I found my favourite camera bag, a Sirui My Story. I look forward to what chapter the next year will write.

As this year comes to an end, I want to express my gratitude to all of you for your continued support. Thank you for visiting our store and putting a smile on our faces. To show our appreciation, we're offering fantastic deals on Tenba bags. Although often overshadowed by brands like Lowepro and Peak Design, Tenba bags are undoubtedly on par with these industry giants, offering exceptional quality at an unbeatable price point. There's the Tenba DNA Messenger Bag, for example, perfect for navigating the streets of Vancouver while keeping your gear organized and protected. Additionally, if you're traveling this holiday season, the Tenba BYOB 10 insert is an excellent investment, allowing you to safely pack your equipment into your check-in luggage and easily locate it with its vibrant blue color.

Although it's not a home run of a purchase, some of the best things in life are singles. :)

Cameras and Film and Things

Thank you all for being truly wonderful, it's all of you regular customers that make this job fulfilling for me! Here's to another year of film photography!!!

Candido is here!

Beau Photo is happy to announce that we are now carrying Candido film. Candido is a C-41 DX coded film that is available in three different ISO ratings: 200, 400 and 800. $25.95 per 135-36 roll.

135-36 only $7 per roll. In store only!

The New Selfie...

Over time, I've figured out that many photographers, including some of my close friends, have changed up the way they take selfies. Previously, I did the "arm's length" selfie, holding the camera out at an arms length and doing the "duck face" at the mercy of wide angle point-and-shoot mobile phone lens. After looking at hundreds of my photos from the 1990s, I realized that half of them were taken with my friend Kate, in all sorts of crazy makeup and outfit combinations. I found myself wishing we had included the environments we had taken the pictures in: the dinky bathroom malls, our bedrooms and their posters, schools and boys passing by. Now, I've reserved myself to taking portraits of myself in mirrors exclusively. This technique lets me include my surroundings: streets, passersby, store fronts.

I guess, I am all about context now and admittedly I AM older and no one needs to see my face THAT close up anymore!! So this year, I'm going to keep it up and see what kind of a collection of myself I end up with.

I encourage all of you to do this as well...perhaps one day it could even be a Beau Customer Selfie Show!!! LOL

A Look Back at 2024

What a year 2024 has been for me!

For those who may not know, I started a personal project called "Impossible but Possible Project" to shoot 1000 rolls of film in a single calendar year. Yes you heard me, 1000 Rolls :P

I was able to achieve this by shooting tons of events and night clubs all throughout the year. Film of choice was mainly bulk rolls of Ilford HP5/FP4, Kodak Vision3 250D/500T, & Kodak Ultramax.

2024 is coming to an end, and it's not a surprise anymore that film is probably going up in price again. :(Here is a deal that might make you feel a bit better!

For Boxing Week, we have FlicFilm UltraPan 100 and 400 24 exp. (possible light leak) for just $4.25 a roll.

This is re-spooled FOMAPAN black and white negative film. FOMAPAN is a trademark of FOMA BOHEMIA spol. s.r.o.

If you need development information for this film, check out the Flic Film website - <https://flicfilm.ca/wp-content/uploads/2023/11/UltraPan-100-400-Developing-Times.pdf>
